BROOKLYN NEWS.

IN THE SOCIAL WORLD.

WAITING FOR ANNOUNCEMENTS OF THE SEASON'S BIG AFFAIRS

THE LIST OF THE WEEK'S WEDDINGS AND THOSE FOR WHICH DATES HAVE BEEN SET-NOTES

brides and bridegrooms, there is little going on in the part of the population of Brooklyn known as hionable society. No dates for the big functions have as yet been announced, and, while there is no oubt that the list will be as large and as interesting as in seasons past, there is at present some speculation going on as to just when some of the eason's dances will take place, and who will engineer them. The principal wedding of the week was that of Miss Florence Norton Bissell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bissell, to Edgar Frederick Luckenbach, which came off in the South Congregational Church, at Court and President sts., on gational Church, at Court and President sts., on Wednesday evening, the Rev. A. J. Lyman, pastor of the church, officiating. An uncommonly artistic and graceful piece of bronze has been purchased by the Interclub Bowling League, as the challenge trophy to be played for under the new conditions drawn up this year. It is a figure of Diana, seated gracefully on a rock rose a ngure or Dana, seated gracefully on a rock projecting from water, and engaged in dropping a morsel of food to a hungry dolphin with her right hand, while in her left she negligently holds her bow and quiver. It took a prize in the Paris Salon, was cast by Favre, of Paris, from a design by Mme. Ledieu, and is valued at $300. E. J. Ovington brought it to Brooklyn.

The stag entertainment at the Montauk will be given on some Saturday evening of this month not yet specified, when some clever billiard players will give exhibitions of their dexterity with the cue.

Flatbush society was well represented at a progressive euchre party and dance given by the Knickerbocker Field Club on Friday night. Like all the social affairs arranged by this popular organizathis was a successful and enjoyable one. Entertainment Committee consisted of E. H. Lott, P. A. Adams and C. F. Fishbeck, and was Lott, F. A. Adams and C. F. Fishbeck, and was ably assisted by an auxiliary committee composed of Mrs. H. B. Davenport, Mrs. Warren Crulkshank and Mrs. George Maynard. At the end of the games refreshments were served, and then the hall was cleared for dancing, which, at least to the young folks, was the chief feature of the evening's amusement. The club intends to give one of these parties every month through the season.

On Monday evening, November II, the Montauk Club will begin its usual series of monthly sub-scription dinners with one for ladies, for which a order of application. The dinner promises to be a handsome affair, and one of the peculiar features will be the singing of a fine quartet of mixed voices between the courses. At the conclusion of the dinner Murat Halstead will speak on the subject "Major George Washington's Adventure in the Ohio Country."

The Brooklyn Club held its first Saturday night subscription dinner of the season last week. These dinners are to be recurring incidents of this season, dinners are to be recurring incidents of this season, and are entirely informal. The one on Saturday night brought together about seventy members, including among others Joseph C. Hendrix, president; George P. Merrill, vice-president; Colonel William Hester, James D. Bell, Horace C. Du Val, David G. Barnett, Nelson G. Carman, W. L. Vandevoort, John Rider, E. L. Graef, H. C. Anthony and J. D. Tweedy.

A noteworthy affair next week will be the reception of Mr. and Mrs. George Nichols on Tuesday at their house, in Clinton-ave., in celebration of their golden wedding.

Among the announcements of weddings for which dates have been set are the following

IN MEMORY OF PHILIP BOWNE. IMPRESSIVE SERVICES IN AURORA GRATA CATHE-DRAL-TRIBUTES FROM FRIENDS AND

was held Thursday evening at the Aurora Grata Cathedral, at Bedford-ave, and Madison-st., by Angio-Saxon Lodge, No. 137, F. and A. M. Mr. Bowne was chief of the Coupon Division of the United States Sub-Treasury, New-York, and one of the oldest clerks in the Treasury in point of service. He was a past master of Anglo-Saxon Lodge and past high priest of Constellation Chapter, R. A. M. Among those present were William Sherer, formerly cashler of the Sub-Treasury, now manager of the Clearing House, and past grand master of the State; W. Hawkins Ferris, paying teller of the Coupon Division of the Sub-Treasury, and W. W. Rowe, bookkeeper, and Orville Oddie, check clerk of the Sub-Treasury; Past Master William C. Humstone, manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company; Worshipful Master Joseph C. Abeel, Past Master Clarence E. Stump, Senior Warden Lyman Company: Worshipful Master Joseph C. Abeel, Past Master Clarence E. Stump, Senior Warden Lyman A. Best, Wayland Trask and Mrs. Sara M. Bowne, the widow of Mr. Bowne, and his two sisters, the Misses Bowne.

Past Master Sherer presided. In opening the service he spoke with feeling of his lifelong friendship with Mr. Bowne, extending over a period of forty years, and paid a high tribute to him as a Mason and as a man, and to the great interest he had always shown in the lodge. Mr. Sherer proposed Mr. Bowne for membership in the lodge.

A commemorative address was delivered by the Rev. J. C. Ager, pastor of the Swedenborgian Church, attended by Mr. Bowne. He dwelt upon Mr. Bowne's probity and gentleness of character and his thorough honesty of purpose. William L. Keese, president of the Midwood Club of Flatbush and a well-known author, read a poem entitled "A Birthday," written by Mr. Bowne and read by him some time ago before that social organization. Mr. Keese, like Mr. Sherer, was a lifelong friend of Mr. Bowne, and in a tender and brotherly way referred to Mr. Bowne and in a tender and brotherly way referred to Mr. Bowne and in tender and brotherly way referred to Mr. Bowne, and in his own early life as boys and as young men. They studied the same authors and were interested in the same intellectual work. Their two households, so far as they were concerned, were as one. Mr. Bowne was never known to express an unkind opinion of any one, and in his private and personal life was as pure as a child in all things. A tribute to Mr. Bowne's memory was also paid by Wayland Trask, representing the Accepted Scottish Rites Masons, in which Mr. Bowne was in high standing. Miss Louise Mundell sang "Crossing the Bar," by Dudey Buck, and other selections, with an organ accompaniment by Willard Forshew, the organist of the lodge, and the floral display was appropriate and beautiful.

AT THE BROOKLYN THEATRES.

"Why in the world was a play that is so sweet and so lovely as that I have witnessed given such a name as Pudd'nhead Wilson?" said a Brooklyn lady last week to Charles E. Evans, the manager. "My dear lady," replied that genial young manager, "I think the name of the play implies one of the most charming points of the whole performance. Dave Wilson, misunderstood by his village neighbors, and by them nicknamed a 'pudd'nhead.' With a patience that is pathetic, uncomplaining he waits upon time to work a change of opinion on his pigheaded neighbors that will make the name a misnomer. And he walts as patiently for this change as he did for that client who never came with a case to gladden his old legal heart, all because of the name his eccentricities had caused his neighbors to bestow upon him. Now you see the point, do you "Yes, I do, and the idea is just lovely. But to bestow upon him. Now you see the point, do you not?" "Yes, I do, and the idea is just lovely. But the name did sound so uncouth and so out of place, when applied to a man so sweet and so lovely as Mr. Mayo makes Dave Wilson and to such a pretty play, that it aroused resemment in me." "Pudd'nhead Wilson" will be played at the Park all of this week, the last week of its engagement in Brooklyn.

Charles Frohman's Empire Theatre stock company will begin an engagement of two weeks, with a matinee Election Day, at the Columbia Theatre to-morrow evening, presenting the successes of the last two seasons at the Empire. The first week will be devoted to Henry Arthur Jones's drama, "The Masqueraders." The production is said to represent over $40,000, the Paris constunes used in one scene aggregating $17,000. For the second week Sydney Grundy's "Sex Against Sex" will be presented in the same complete manner as last year. The complete list of the Empir Theatre company is as follows: Henry Miller, William Faversham, J. E. Dodson, Robert Edeson, W. H. Crompton, Leo Ditrichstein, Joseph Humphreys, Viola Alien, Eisle De Wolfe, Olive May. May Robson, Ardinne Dairolles and Genevieve Reynolds.

For this week Manager Knowles has engaged for the Amphion Theatre the Delia Fox Opera Company, which produced the new comic opera, "Fleur-de-Lis" in New-York. It will be seen for the first time in Brooklyn. This organization scored one of the biggest hits here last season, and comes to Brooklyn with a record of an eight weeks' run at Palmer's Theatre, New-York. A special matinee will be given on Election Day.

WILLIAM H. ONION DEAD.

William H. Onion, for many years a valued employe of the Standard Oil Company in the general office at No. 26 Broadway, died from heart disease on Friday at his home, No. 421 Sumner-ave., Brooklyn, after a brief illness. He was born in Dedham Mass., seventy years ago, coming to New-York Mass, seventy years ago, coming to New-107k when a young man and engaging in the sale of firearms. About twenty years ago he became associated with the Pratt interests in the Standard Oil Company, and was held in high regard. He was a Republican, and attended the Tompkins Avenue Congregational Church. He is survived by a widow, two sons and a daughter. The funeral will take place to-day at the house, and the burial will be in Greenwood Justice Goetting, in the Lee Avenue Police Court, held John Canavan, the motorman of the trolley-car which killed John Behrends, seventeen years old, at Marcy-ave, and Wallabout-st., on Friday night, in $1,500 bail on a charge of criminal negligence. The bail was furnished by Charles Hart, a contractor. Thomas Morrissey, the conductor of the car, who was arrested, was also balled for trial. Canavan lives at No. 11 Nostrand-ave. He admitted to the Magistrate that the car was without a fender, and said he had been ordered to take it out, and did so. He said he could not avoid the accident.

Witnesses to the killing of Behrends declare that

A ROMANCE BROUGHT INTO COURT.

NATHAN BARRETT MUNDY'S TROUBLES DATE THE BARRETT ESTATE INVOLVED.

A story with romantic features was revealed in the Supreme Court before Judge Gaynor yesterday in the application of Clarence Barrett for leave to issue executions on three small judgments against the property of Nathan Barrett Mundy, a son of the the property of Nathan Barrett Sundy, a son of the late Dr. Mundy, of West Brighton, Staten Island, and a grandson of Nathan Barrett, founder of the dyeworks of Barrett, Nephews & Sons. A TROLLEY SMASH IN FLATBUSH-AVE

THE DRIVER OF A FURNITURE VAN GETS A BROKEN LEG, AND PASSENGERS ARE SHAKEN UP.

A serious accident took place in Flathush-ave., Brooklyn, between Malbone-st. and the plaza, yesterday morning, in which W. H. Cartwright, of No. 184 Fourth-ave., a furniture van driver, had his leg broken by a Flatbush-ave, trolley-car. The van was also smashed and the horses hurt. The car was in charge of C. F. Pollard, motorman, and James Nichols, conductor. The rails were slippery with the rain, and when Pollard tried to slack up in order to avoid running into the van he lost control of his car. He reversed his lever, and applied the brake, but the car went on, increasing its speed every moment. Pollard rarg his bell, but the driver of the van had no time to get out of the way. The car struck the van, lifting it in the air. Cartwright struck on his head on the asphalit pavenent, and lay unconscious. The horses were rolled over and one of them hurt.

The front platform and the front windows of the car were smashed. The terror-stricken passengers escaped without injury. Cartright refused to go to the hospital, and was taken home in an ambulance, James Nichols, conductor. The rails were slippery unmolested in all his rights and privileges until in 1888 he married a ticket agent of the Rapid Transit Company of Staten Island, Mrs. Annie Chestnut by name, mother of several children by a previous marriage. The ceremony was of a clandestine nat-ure. It is alleged that immediately thereafter the executors of the will, John T. Barrett and Clarence Barrett, had the plaintiff adjudged insane after a long litigation, and confined in the Middletown Asy-lum

In his absence, it is claimed, the executors broke open his safe in order to gain possession of his certificate of marriage and other private papers with a view to dissolving his marriage.

After nine months Mundy regained his liberty through the efforts of his wife and step-mother. Then he began a number of suits against Clarence Barrett, the surviving executor, but was unsuccessful, the defendant securing three judgments against him, amounting to $488 88. These are the judgments on which the executor wants execution. The estate yields Mundy an income of $3,300 a year, but Mundy swears that during the seven years from 1888 to 1896 he has received only $11,340, leaving a balance due him in the executor's hands of over $11,000.

Judge Gaynor advised Mundy to sue for an accounting of the estate.

MR. HENRIQUES, OF THE BRIDGE TRUSTEES, EX-PRESSES HIMSELF REGARDING THE MEMBERS OF THE GRAND JURY.

A. Henriques, of the Board of Trustees of the Brooklyn Bridge, was inclined to be severe yesrelative to the presentment of the Grand Jury which criticises the new Bridge terminal.

"If we had only known," said Mr. Henriques, "that the Grand Jury was composed of so many

I cannot see how they dare set their opinion against that of the expert engineers who made the plans."

When President Howell was asked to unburden himself on the subject, he said:

"Well. I think it the most ridiculous thing I ever heard of. But, tace, you see, this is election time, and that fact explains a great many things otherwise incomprehensible. I have no fault to find, but I will say that it would have been more discreet if the Grand Jurors had taken the trouble to fully inform themselves on the subject before acting. If they had only come down to the Bridge office and examined the plans they would not have taken this action, and so made themselves ridiculous in the eyes of the public. If they had wanted facts and were trying to give an intelligent opinion on this question they could have come here and not have placed themselves on record as they have done."

and Hoboken give us unrivalled advantages over other retailers, enabling us to carry larger assortments and quote lower prices than elsewhere possible. It is well known that our "regular" rates insure a saving of from 20 to 30 % from prevailing retail prices. But at a time, such as this, when our entire stock is repriced on a special basis, competition stands at bay. Imitation is impossible.
